

The Gamemaster

You are in touch with the gaming scene and have the ability to design games to engage students meaningfully.

At work

Your greatest reward is seeing your students remember and use concepts that they have learnt through gamified lessons.

At home

You probably try out different Escape Rooms for fun, have a collection of board games, or play online games whenever you can.

Favorite SLS tool

You love the gamification feature that takes your students through a game story and engage them in friendly competition.

Helping others

Share your gamification templates and ideas on SLS with other teachers to quicken lesson creation.

SLS Recommends

Take gamification to the next level by differentiating Activity Access for groups of students. This way, they can experience different game stories while still achieving their learning goals! Find out more.
